

Red Mile Daily Selections
Saturday, October 6, 2018
Track Handicapper – Gabe Prewitt

Race 1	Selections	4-3-2-7	Gingras chose 3 over 1; Zeron chose 4 over 7
1	Urban Legend	The train has gone off the tracks a bit in her last couple of starts, making breaks in the late stages of both miles. We know she has some talent, but that is a bit concerning. Dips down here, but not sure I want a short price on her.
2	Kenziesky Hanover	Another filly that has been a bit hard to trust at times, but she has proven she packs plenty of speed when she keeps her mind on business. She fits assuming she trots.
3	ImPink too	OH Champ has been on a tear of late, riding high into this afternoon on a 3-race win streak, and keep in mind she is in the inaugural Lexington Mixed Sale tomorrow as well. Must respect credentials.
4	Sevenbuy eleven	Had solid late trot last week against stakes company to finish up evenly, and lands back in what should be a much more manageable group here this afternoon. Any similar effort puts her squarely in the mix against these.
5	California Love	Couldn't hang in with #3 in late stages last week, even with the perfect trip on her back. Likely going to have to step things up a bit still after landing in an even deeper group overall this afternoon.
6	It's Hallright	A notch below the top ones in a similar spot last week as a big longshot, and retains longshot status here this afternoon. Pass for now.
7	Spunky Bttm Girl	Snuck through down at the inside last week to grab the place spot from #5, but lands on the outside of what seems to be an even better group overall this afternoon. Gets one more crack at her OH rival (#3). Your call.

Race 2	Selections	4-2-3-6	Start of the 50c Pick 5	D Miller chose 2 over 7
1	I'm Trigger Happy	A notch below the top shelf stakes fillies maybe, but she lands on the pole here this afternoon in what seems to be the softer of 2 divs. I could consider her for a minor share against these.
2	McVenus	Put in a solid late rally to pick up the runner-up spot here last week, but keep in mind she steps up to face a very good group of stakes fillies this afternoon. We know she has some talent though, I'll try her to be close.
3	Dance Blue	KY Champ put in a decent bid last time to finish in behind her heavily favored stablemate, and lands back in the softer of 2 divs this afternoon. Best effort puts her squarely in the mix against these.
4	Wisdom Tree	Connections opted to put up $22.5k to supplement into this event today, and this filly has proven that she can more than hold her own with the very best. No question the one to beat here.
5	Sansovina Hanover	Never got involved here last week, but has been a notch below the top fillies all season long. Likely facing a similar scenario here this afternoon. I'll wait for a better spot.
6	Double A Mint	Parlayed a perfect ground saving trip into a decent 4 th place finish here last week, and lands in a touch easier group overall this afternoon. Still going to need her very best punch though.
7	Odds on Stephanie	Overmatched against stakes foes here last week, and seems to be facing an uphill battle again today from a tough starting slot. Pass for now.

Race 3	Selections	8-7-5-2	Zeron chose 7 over 1; Tetrick chose 8 over 2; Kakaley chose 6 over 3
1	Can't Beach That	Raced evenly here last week, but still not maybe as sharp as what we saw him earlier this summer when he first arrived in town. Should get a nice tracking trip from inside post this afternoon, but will have to step things up a bit still.
2	Lyons Johnny jnr	Things couldn't have possibly set up any better for him last week, as he got a picture perfect trip in behind the leader off moderate fractions, before nailing him late. If we missed the party at 21-1, hard to show back up today at shorter odds.
3	Warrawee Unique	Paced evenly here last week, but no match for #8 in there and likely facing a similar scenario here this afternoon. Difficult assignment.
4	Cub Fan	Tough time to be a Cub fan, how could you possibly drop back to back must-win games at home? Oh well, there's always next year. This guy was rough gaited through the lane last week after a tough trip. Needs a quick rebound.
5	Rock Candy	Really never found a seam through the lane last week until it was too late. I thought that was a very solid effort, but unfortunately for him, he will have his hands full this afternoon against his stablemate (#8).
6	World on Edge	The break last week was no fault of his own, but still appears to be a notch below the top ones in here this afternoon. Would have to step things up quite a bit still.
7	Odds on Boca Raton	Completely and hopelessly blocked through the stretch here last time, so don't hold that start against him. I will try him to bounce back with a smoother journey this afternoon at a better price.
8	Workin ona mystry	Probably one of the most impressive efforts we saw during week 1 of Grand Circuit racing, this guy kicked it into another gear in deep stretch in only his 4 th career start. I can't wait to see what's next!

Race 7                      Selections                      6-4-2                      Start of the $10,000G Pick 4                      Gingras chose 4 over 1; McCarthy chose 6 over 8

1	No Mas Amor	Chased home rivals evenly here last week, but still appears to be a notch below the top colts in here today. Would have to step things up quite a bit still to make any major noise.
2	Air Force Hanover	Has been RAZOR sharp of late, including a handy win as the fav here last week. Lands in a bit deeper company here this afternoon, but any similar effort should put him very close once more.
3	Artie's Deal	Stepped up with an improved effort to split the two heavy favs here last week, but lands in an even deeper group overall this afternoon. I could consider for bottom half of exotics only today.
4	De Los Cielos Deo	Not quite sure what happened in the Metro, as that was the first sub-par effort of his sensational career. Looking to get back on track today after taking last week off to freshen up. Big chance.
5	Yacht Week	Raced evenly here last week, but lands in against an even better group here this afternoon. Not sure he's ready for these right now. Pass.
6	Captain Ahab	Entered the Metro as the talk of the freshman pacing ranks an undefeated 7 for 7, but tasted defeat for the first time that night. Very similar to #4, in the fact he will be looking for a bounce back effort today. Supremely talented.
7	Volley Ball Beach	Hasn't proven he packs the necessary speed to hang with the top ones in here just yet, I'll wait until we see some improvement. Pass.
8	Union Station	Overmatched as a big longshot last week, and retains longshot status this afternoon against an even better group overall. Pass for now.
9	Dancin Lou	Packed it in late last week, and gets slammed with outside post today against a good group. Difficult assignment.

Race 8                      Selections                      1-5-10-2                      Gingras chose 5 over 3; Br Miller chose 9 over 7

1	McWicked	Got caught in a tough spot from a tough post at Dayton, but should be able to dictate his own terms here today after landing on the pole. Has enjoyed a great campaign, winning half, while hitting the board in 12 of 14. Lots to like.
2	All Bets Off	Triple-millionaire parlayed a perfect trip into an even finish at Dayton, and seems to have landed in a similar spot here this afternoon. Hasn't been quite as sharp so far this season, I'll consider him for a minor share once again.
3	Rockin Ron	I still remember the HUGE mile he ripped off at Western Fair to win the Molson Pace earlier this year, but has been a notch below the top FFA pacers of late. Needs more.
4	Heaven Rocks A	Down-under invader got off to a great start stateside earlier this spring, but has missed some time of late after things went off track a bit. Adds Lasix today, but likely going to need a start before we get his very best. I'll watch one.
5	Lazarus N	The Red Mile has been mentioned as a stop on the schedule since his U.S. campaign was announced, and here we are! In the midst of a great campaign, and arrives over the track where Champions are crowned. He will have to earn it today against a star-studded cast. Should be fun!
6	Filibuster Hanover	'17 Little Brown Jug Champ has enjoyed the transition as a 4-year old this season, having already earned over $467k along the way. That said, he's been a slight notch below the top ones in here of late. Will have to step it up a bit.
7	Dr J Hanover	Only a fringe player against stakes foes so far this season, and is another that seems to be on the outside staring in this afternoon after landing in a deep group. I'll wait for a better spot.
8	Split the House	Picked up the biggest win of his career in the '17 Breeders Crown at Hoosier Park, and has been picking up minor checks against the top level throughout most of this season. Tough post today, won't be easy.
9	Western Fame	Displayed some sharp early speed at Dayton to secure the nice trip in behind #10 for a close runner-up finish. Not sure things will work out that well today from way out here. Lots of early speed in here, could be a shootout off the gate.
10	Donttell meagain	He is RAZOR sharp right now, and he will have to be today after getting slammed with post 10 against a talented field. Tetrick will have to find a way to get him worked into the race, but must respect credentials.

Race 9                      Selections                      7-3-5-8                      D Miller chose 5 over 4; Zeron chose 3 over 5

1	American Mercury	Expectedly gave way a bit late here last week after launching a tough first over attack against #8 in there. Should be in line for a smoother journey today after landing on the pole, but still going to need his very best punch.
2	Buddy Hill	A notch below the top colts here last week, and appears to be facing a similar uphill battle again today. Pass for now.
3	Captain Crunch	Started off 3 for 3 to begin his career, but has tasted defeat in the last couple after stepping up to tackle the best of the best. No question he fits with these, needs a big rebound to get back on track today. Maybe.
4	Fabrice Hanover	No match for that runaway winner last week, and still seems to be a slight notch below the top colts in here today. Would have to step things up quite a bit still to hang with the top ones in here.
5	Proof	Not quite sure what to make of last week. Yes, he did sprint home fairly well after a conservative steer, but I still wasn't overly impressed. We KNOW he is better than that. More aggressive handling coming here? I suspect so.
6	Actor Hanover	I took a swing with him last week and he was disappointing. Things aren't going to get any easier for him here today. Pass.
7	Sugar Factory	Things set up perfectly for him last time with a live 2 nd over tow into it, but he took full advantage to storm home in 26.1 to finish within half a length. Lands in a deep group here today, but we know he has some talent. I'll take a swing.
8	Captain Victorious	Had every opportunity to steal one on the lead here last week, after getting away with a very soft tempo in the early stages. Couldn't quite seal the deal there, and likely won't have things that easy here today.

Race 10		Selections	6-7-3-1	Tetrick chose 7 over 2 &amp; 5; Gingras chose 4 over 8
1	Band Stand	She was overloaded two starts back in the $250k KYSS Final but couldn't get through and had to settle for 2 nd . Followed that up with a sub-par effort last time though, and lands in deep water here this afternoon.
2	Cuts Like a Knife	Got tortured with a tough trip as a big longshot here last week, and still seems to be facing a tall order today against a good group. I'll pass for now.
3	Baron Remy	A heads up drive landed her in a perfect spot here last week in behind #6, and she parlayed that into a close runner-up finish. Lands in a bit better group overall today in the tougher of 2 divs though. Will need her absolute best here.
4	Yourare mycandygirl	Keep in mind she LOVES the red clay, setting a World Record in winning here last year in 1:50 flat. That said, I'm just not convinced she is completely on top of her game right now after the break at Delaware. Hmm....
5	Pearl Blue Chip	Unleashed a big effort to dominate overnight rivals in Canada last week, but she takes a step back up to the major leagues this afternoon against a talented crew. I'm not convinced she's ready for these just yet.
6	Kissin in the Sand	We knew it wasn't going to be easy from a tough post last week in a big bulky field, but she certainly made it look effortless. Must respect her impressive credentials, I'm back on board once again.
7	Alexa's Power	Got the big win she deserved in taking the $230k Jugette, but keep in mind things did set up fairly nicely there after a nice trip and #4 made the break in stride. Still, we must respect her impressive resume, hitting the board in 15/16.
8	Strong Opinion	Gets slammed with outside post again today, this time in the tougher of two divs. Asking a bit much against these. Pass.

Race 11		Selections	9-5-4-7-2	Tetrick chose 7 over 3; D Miller chose 4 over 6 &amp; 9
1	Price Hanover	Overmatched against stakes foes here last week, but keep in mind he does land on the pole here today in what seems to be the softer of 5 stakes divs. That said, still likely going to have to pick things up a bit to make any major noise.
2	Waterway	Couldn't quite hang with the fav in late stages last week, but parlayed a nice trip in behind that eventual winner to hang in for a close 3 rd . Not an overly tough div here this afternoon, but still going to need his absolute very best.
3	Black Smile	Put together a decent late rally here last week to finish a respectable 3 rd , and wouldn't have to step things up all that much to make some noise again this afternoon. I could consider him for bottom of exotics once more.
4	Covered Bridge	Took a decent bit of tote action here last week, and stepped up and delivered with an explosive late kick to score over the favorite. Plenty of options from another perfect mid-pack post. Lots to like.
5	Loutenant	Unleashed a solid late bid here last week when he finally shook loose down the lane. He has been better over the last couple of starts than we've seen him all season. I'll try him to be close once more.
6	Jack Nation	We know this guy has some talent, but he arrives into this afternoon after throwing in back to back clunkers against NY stakes foes. Hard to endorse right now. I'll wait for a hint of improvement.
7	Mangogh	A very nice acclimating mile over the track to finish 2 nd in behind the fav last week. He has proven he belongs, and doesn't land in an overly difficult group here in the finale. He fits with these.
8	Bicorne Hanover	Couldn't hang with the top ones in late stages here last week when adding Lasix even after a picture-perfect trip in there. Not sure things are going to get any easier here from an even tougher post. Pass for now.
9	Magic Joe Lindy	I have been a big fan of this colt's since he has burst on the scene. A victim of circumstances last week, as he got caught far back through some slow early fractions. He is talented enough to beat these. I'm on board.
